To writers of letters of recommendation:

Please comment in detail regarding the applicant's potential for graduate study and the basis for your judgment. We are particularly interested in your assessment of the student's ability, potential, and/or experience as a creative writer; student's ability to write English clearly; student's maturity; student's background in literature; and student's promise for a successful graduate career.

Do not include information that might indicate the individual's race, color, national origin, citizenship status, religion, creed, age, disability, gender (unless by the individual's name it is obvious), sexual orientation, marital status, or status with regard to public assistance. In compliance with Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, we discourage you from referring directly or indirectly to an applicant's handicap.

Please use the reverse side of this sheet for your comments or attach a separate letter.

Out of approximately _____ persons I have taught/advised at this educational level during the past _____ years, I would rank this applicant in the upper _____ percent on the basis of potential to achieve a graduate degree.
