Students whose parents refuse to complete a Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) and who provide no financial support are allowed by federal regulations to apply for an unsubsidized Federal Direct Loan. Financial support includes payment of educational expenses as well as non-cash support such as room and board, health or auto insurance, cell phone plans, etc.

To request a review of your eligibility for an unsubsidized federal loan without parent data, attach ALL of the following:

A SIGNED LETTER FROM YOU, THE STUDENT, PROVIDING DETAILS OF:

- your relationship with your parent(s)
- the last time you received any type of financial support from a parent
- how you have supported yourself since you last received support

YOUR MOST RECENTLY FILED FEDERAL TAX RETURN (SIGNED)

A SIGNED LETTER FROM YOUR PARENT(S) DOCUMENTING:

- the last time they provided any type of cash or non-cash support
- that they are not currently providing you with any type of insurance
- that they will not provide financial support of any kind in the future
- their refusal to complete the parental section of the FAFSA
